CANVASS

And Other Work for the New City Directory Are Now in Progress.

Messrs. R. L. Polk and Company have commenced their canvass for the new city directory for 1911-1912. They have put the work in charge of their highest salaried men and every effort will be made to produce a specially valuable book.

They will go to every house in all the adjacent settlements and additions and also include Wilsonburg, Bridgeport and Shinnston. In the front of the book they will prominently show that Clarksburg is the center of some twenty thousand population which would be credited to the city were the corporation lines extended to one and one-half miles each way from the court house, instead of being the small place with only 9,200 people, which the last United States census gives out to the world, (the government counting only those within the corporate limits).

The directory will be placed in the directory libraries in important cities thus giving Clarksburg a special advertisement throughout the country and its proper standing in the business world. This is directly in line with and cannot fail to materially aid the efforts of the Clarksburg Board of Trade to secure other important industries here. The directory libraries are daily increasing in popularity and influence, as they are consulted by those who desire knowledge concerning any distant city, for no other publication so correctly and completely reveals the facts. The city directory not only gives the names and addresses of the people and notes the industries already secured, but clearly and understandingly shows the religious, educational, social, financial, health and political facilities—shows its size and its location on the map—shows its fire and police protection and its natural as well as artificial advantages of fuel, gas, water, sewerage—in fact informs the stranger all he can possibly wish to know.

The forthcoming volume should therefore be in every directory library in the country, and we are assured it will be so placed if the publishers receive the cordial support they confidently expect from the live and progressive business men of Clarksburg.
